PORTILLO'S STORY

The first hot dog stand known as The Dog House opened in 1963 on North Avenue in Villa Park. Owner and founder Dick Portillo invested $1,100 into a 6'x12' trailer, which had no bathroom or running water. To get the water he needed, he ran a 250 ft. hose from an adjacent building into his trailer. By 1967, The Dog House was a hit and was ready for a new look. After a minor renovation it was renamed Portillo's... and the rest is history. Since then, Portillo's has grown into one of the Midwest's largest privately-owned restaurant chains.
